

appetite WINE AWARDS 2012

by Appetite magazine combining delectable food, fantastic wines and sparkling conversation. With the number of wines available in the market today, choosing a wine is an exercise in indecision. The Appetite Wine Awards helps consumers focus on wines that have received the stamp of approval from local wine experts and wine lovers, making it truly a people's choice award." He added that several of the Awards recipients have been quietly drawing praise from those working in the wine trade; it is fitting therefore that they are receiving due recognition through the Appetite Wine Awards.

Husband and wife team Jo and Klaus Schwarz, whose company Ampelia has been presented with the Awards for the third consecutive year, shares that the annual event is a clear indication of praise and appreciation from wine trade professionals and connoisseurs alike. "Appetite reaches out to food and wine lovers in Singapore who are the right audience to appreciate the products presented. So the Wine Awards is an important decision-making factor for many consumers. And having been voted among the best for the third time in a row makes us feel proud and reassures us that we are doing the right thing — which is bringing to Singapore wines that are appreciated by professionals as much as by the readers who represent the taste of Singapore. It gives us the confidence to continue importing wines that are excellently crafted and good value for money."
